An Imprint of Penn State University Press

From the publisher—

July 1, 2018, marked the 43rd anniversary of Eisenbrauns—and the first birthday that the publishing program celebrated in its new home, as an imprint of Penn State University Press. I'm delighted to report that the publishing program is well and flourishing in its new context and that the collegial collaboration that has existed among Eisenbrauns, our authors, our editors, and our customers is continuing to produce great books and good service for students and scholars engaged in the disciplines of biblical studies, Semitic languages and linguistics, Levantine archaeology, Mesopotamian studies, and ancient Near Eastern history.

Books in all of our areas of focus have been published in 2018 or are in production, including the third volume in Porten and Yardeni's Textbook of Aramaic Ostraca from Idumea, a wealth of archaeological final reports (on Ashkelon, Sepphoris, and Lahav, as well as copublications with Tel Aviv University Institute of Archaeology), a remarkable new Middle Egyptian grammar by Peter Beylage, and the latest volume in the Royal Inscriptions of the Neo-Assyrian Period series (covering Ashurbanipal, Aššur-etel-ilāni, and Sîn-šarra-iškun), as well as strong titles in both the Siphrut and Bulletin for Biblical Research Supplement series. Finally, if you are interested in how ideas and motifs migrate across numerous cultures, you will not want to miss Robert D. Miller's study of dragon and mountain mythology in his The Dragon, the Mountain, and the Nations; it is sure to provoke thought and discussion.

One of the best ways to keep track of what is coming from the press is to subscribe to one or more of our BookNews newsletters; you can easily do this at www.eisenbrauns.org. We look forward to our continued partnership with you. And, as always, we welcome your comments on our publishing program.

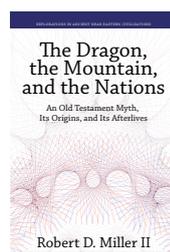

—JIM EISENBRAUN

Enemies and Friends of the State

Ancient Prophecy in Context

Edited by Christopher A. Rollston

Within the world of the Bible, prophets and prophetesses were sometimes ardent proponents of royal and priestly rhetoric and deeds, but they could also be vocal critics, speaking truth to power. Enemies and Friends of the State plumbs the depths of the prophetic voices of the Hebrew Bible, the Old Testament Apocrypha, and the Greek New Testament, with more than twenty-five of the most distinguished scholars in the field of biblical studies contributing articles.

Christopher A. Rollston is Professor of Northwest Semitic Languages and Literatures in the Department of Classical and Near Eastern Languages and Civilizations at George Washington University.

Cuneiform in Canaan

The Next Generation

Wayne Horowitz, Takayoshi Oshima, and Seth L. Sanders

An updated version of the original Cuneiform in Canaan volume that was published by the Israel Exploration Society and the Hebrew University of Jerusalem in 2006, this volume presents all ninety-seven of the known texts, including new tablets and fragments from Hazor, Megiddo, and now, for the first time, Jerusalem.

Wayne Horowitz is Professor of Assyriology at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. He is an authority on cuneiform texts in Sumerian and Akkadian that deal, directly or indirectly, with the structure of the cosmos.

Takayoshi Oshima is currently a Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft researcher at the Institute for Old Testament Studies, University of Leipzig.

Seth L. Sanders is Professor of Religious Studies at the University of California, Davis.

The Southern Levant Under Assyrian Domination

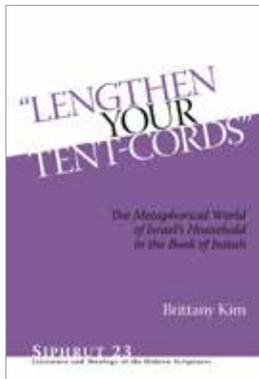

Edited by Shawn Zelig Aster
and Avraham Faust

With its unique geographic diversity and abundant archaeological and textual data, the southern Levant is an excellent “laboratory” for studying how Assyrian domination operated. This collection of essays explains how Neo-Assyrian rule influenced the demographics, economy, and culture of the region.

In addition to the editors, the contributors to this volume include Amitai Baruchi-Unna, Yigal Bloch, Alex Fantalkin, Wayne Horowitz, David Kertai, Lily Singer-Avitz, and Peter Zilberg.

Shawn Zelig Aster is Senior Lecturer in the Departments of Land of Israel Studies and Archeology and Hebrew Bible at Bar-Ilan University.

Avraham Faust is Professor of Archaeology in the Department of Land of Israel Studies and Archeology at Bar-Ilan University.

“Lengthen Your Tent-Cords”

The Metaphorical World of Israel’s Household in the Book of Isaiah

Brittany Kim

The last few decades have seen a gradual shift in Isaianic studies as scholars are beginning to give greater attention to the book’s literary features rather than focusing predominantly on the question of its sources. Brittany Kim’s study takes a literary approach, exploring how the book portrays Israel and its capital city using five metaphors that arise from the realm of household relationships: sons/children, daughter(s), mother, wife, and servant(s).

Pulling together insights from individual studies, “Lengthen Your Tent-Cords” draws connections and highlights contrasts among the various metaphors. Kim concludes by examining how Israel and Zion fit into YHWH’s royal household.

History and Hope

The Agrarian Wisdom of Isaiah 28–35

Daniel J. Stulac

History and Hope examines the rhetorical function of Isaiah 28–35, a relatively overlooked series of six woe oracles, in relation to reading the book of Isaiah as a whole. These eight chapters rely on the language of agrarian wisdom to transport the reader from prior reflections on historical destruction to a vision of ultimate hope. Daniel Stulac’s study, therefore, offers new insight into the book of Isaiah, but perhaps more importantly, it does so through two methodological innovations that promise to enhance biblical research at large.

The Unfavored

Judah and Saul in the Narratives of Genesis and 1 Samuel

Josef Sykora

Following the work of scholars who have attempted to rehabilitate the notion of “chosenness” in the Old Testament or have focused more narrowly on the biblical portrayal of non-Israelites, The Unfavored centers on the role of “unfavored” characters within Israel—specifically, Judah and Saul.

Josef Sykora examines two narratives with seemingly opposite trajectories: the Joseph cycle in Genesis 37–50 and the Saul episode in 1 Samuel 13–15. A freshly insightful exploration of chosenness in the Old Testament, The Unfavored guides us to new and deeper interpretations of these biblical texts.

Josef Sykora is Assistant Professor of Biblical Interpretation and the director of the Doctor of Ministry program at Northeastern Seminary.

A Glossary of Old Syrian

Volume I: ? – k
Joaquín Sanmartín

A Glossary of Old Syrian is a two-volume lexicographical index of the Old Syrian linguistic continuum. This glossary gives a picture, or map, of the Old Syrian lexicon as it can be extracted and reconstructed from the available sources, from the (Old Akkadian-)Eblaitic through the Old and Middle Babylonian corpora. This first volume covers words beginning with the letters ? through k.

Joaquín Sanmartín is Professor Emeritus at the University of Barcelona. He is the author of a number of books and studies in Akkadian, Hurrian, and Old Syrian lexicography and grammar, including A Dictionary of the Ugaritic Language in the Alphabetic Tradition, coauthored with Gregorio del Olmo Lete.

Middle Egyptian

Peter Beylage

This grammar provides a comprehensive overview of Middle Egyptian and illustrates its grammatical features with extensive examples from various sources. Exercises at the end of each chapter, along with a sign list and a hieroglyphic word list, provide the reader with the means to apply and practice the content, enabling this book to be used as both a grammar reference and a textbook. The extensive content of the forty chapters provides a suitable basis for self-guided study and enables the student to read and understand Egyptian inscriptions and literary texts in hieroglyphic transliteration.

Peter Beylage is an independent scholar and specialist in the languages and archaeology of ancient Egypt.

The Dragon, the Mountain, and the Nations

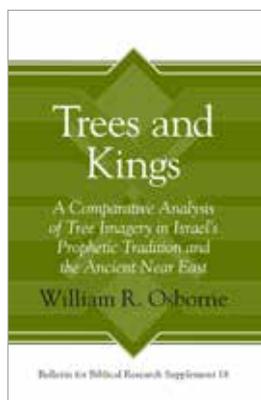

An Old Testament Myth, Its Origins, and Its Afterlives
Robert D. Miller II

The Dragon, the Mountain, and the Nations investigates the origins, manifestations, and meanings of a myth that plays a major role in the Hebrew Bible and a substantial role in the New Testament: the dragon-slaying myth.

In this study, Robert D. Miller II examines the dragon and dragon-slaying myth throughout India, the proto-Indo-European cultures, and Iran; among the Hittites as well as other ancient Near Eastern and Mesopotamian traditions; and then throughout the Bible, including Genesis, the Psalms, Daniel, and ultimately the New Testament and the book of Revelation.

Trees and Kings

A Comparative Analysis of Tree Imagery in Israel's Prophetic Tradition and the Ancient Near East

William R. Osborne

The Old Testament prophets did not hesitate to use the rhetorical conventions accessible to them when delivering their sermons of salvation and judgment. One source of comparison used frequently in the prophets and widely throughout the ancient Near East is the image of a tree. In Trees and Kings, William Osborne evaluates the cultural and cognitive conditions in which such figurative tree imagery arose, drawing on comparative study of ancient Near Eastern tree imagery and the cognitive-linguistic approach of metaphor theory.

Bearing YHWH's Name at Sinai

A Reexamination of the Name Command of the Decalogue

Carmen Joy Imes

The Name Command is usually interpreted as a prohibition against speaking YHWH's name in a particular context: false oaths, wrongful pronunciation, irreverent worship, magical practices, cursing, false teaching, and the like. However, the Name Command lacks the contextual specification needed to support the command as speech related. Taking seriously the narrative context at Sinai and the closest lexical parallels, a different picture emerges—one animated by concrete rituals and their associated metaphorical concepts.

Poor and Rich in James

A Relevance Theory Approach to James's Use of the Old Testament

Nelson R. Morales

The epistle of James was, for years, a forgotten book in academic circles. In recent decades, however, a renewed focus on early Judaism has generated interest in looking at James with new eyes. The present investigation focuses on how James uses the Old Testament in those passages where he deals with poverty and wealth. In particular, it focuses on how he builds his ethics of poverty and wealth.

"I Will Walk Among You"

The Rhetorical Function of Allusion to Genesis 1-3 in the Book of Leviticus

G. Geoffrey Harper

The well-known parallels between Genesis and Leviticus invite further reflection, particularly in regard to the rhetorical and theological purpose of their lexical, syntactical, and conceptual correspondences. This volume investigates the possibility that the final-form text of Leviticus is an indirect reference to Genesis 1-3 and examines the rhetorical significance of such an allusion. This comprehensive study of the connections between these two sections of the Hebrew Bible sheds light on both the literary artistry of these ancient texts and the persuasive purposes that lie behind their composition.

“Like a Lone Bird on a Roof”

Animal Imagery and the Structure of Psalms

Tova L. Forti

In this volume, Tova Forti shows how investigation of the poetics of the animal kingdom can elucidate the effect metaphors exert on psalmodic theology. The focus herein on the faunal imagery in Psalms—the literary perception of the animals adduced and the structural and stylistic rhetorical features of the imagery—serves as a lens through which the reader can perceive the poetic dynamics and their impact upon and interaction with the psalm as a prayer.

A Corpus of Ammonite Inscriptions

Second edition

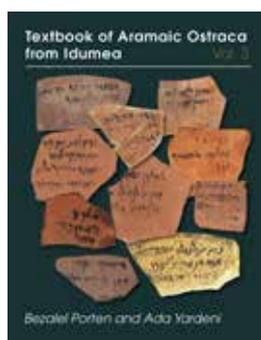

Walter E. Aufrecht

A Corpus of Ammonite Inscriptions presents all of the published inscriptions that have been identified as Ammonite in one volume. Each entry is accompanied by a complete bibliography, a physical description and details about its location, a photograph and/or drawing, relevant linguistic information, and a history of the inscription's interpretation. This updated edition includes 254 additional inscriptions, four new appendices, and, in many cases, new and improved images.

Walter E. Aufrecht is Professor Emeritus at the University of Lethbridge, where he taught archaeology. He has authored and edited several books and articles on Aramaic and Ammonite languages and literatures, including “An Eye for Form”: Epigraphic Essays in Honor of Frank Moore Cross, also published by Eisenbrauns.

Textbook of Aramaic Ostraca from Idumea, Volume 3

Bezalel Porten and Ada Yardeni

The third of a multivolume work classifying the Idumean Aramaic ostraca according to subject matter, this book contains more than two hundred more such dossiers (TAO A51–255a) and numerous fragments. Each text is accompanied by a color photograph and hand-copy, a facing transcription and translation, and a ceramic description and commentary. In addition to the presentation of individual texts, there are six tables of dossiers covering all the commodity chits, parallel tables that classify them according to month or size, and comparative lists of entries.

Bezalel Porten is Professor Emeritus at the Hebrew University. He has authored and coauthored ten books and more than one hundred articles.

Ada Yardeni authored and coauthored more than fifty articles and books on Hebrew paleography, including The Book of Hebrew Script.

Lahav VII: Ethnoarchaeology in the Tell Halif Environs

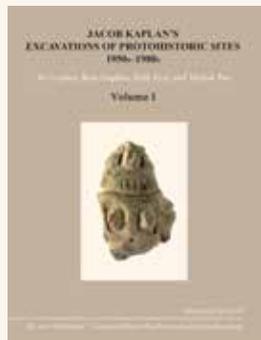

Excavations in Site 1, Complex A, 1976–1979

Joe D. Seger and Karen E. Seger

This seventh volume of final reports of the Lahav Research Project's efforts in Southern Israel focuses on the team's excavations and related regional ethnographic research at adjacent Khirbet Khuweilifeh, an early twentieth-century settlement of Bedouin and Arab fellahin clients. These efforts illustrate the symbiosis between the itinerant Bedouin and their seasonal sharecropper neighbors along the northern flanks of the Negev desert during and following the First World War in southern Palestine.

Joe D. Seger is director emeritus of the Cobb Institute of Archaeology at Mississippi State University.

Karen E. Seger was an archaeologist of the Middle East and the author of Portrait of a Palestinian Village.

Jacob Kaplan's Excavations of Protohistoric Sites, 1950s-1980s

Edited by Avi Gopher, Ram Gophna, Ruth Eyal, and Yitzhak Paz

Jacob Kaplan was a dynamic field archaeologist and an original researcher of the Pottery Neolithic and Chalcolithic periods in the Levant who was not accepted by the mainstream scholarly community of his time. In this two-volume publication, the authors present some of Kaplan's unpublished fieldwork.

They also offer a broad canvas of the thoughts, theories, and considerations that placed Kaplan at the forefront of Israeli archaeology.

The Cultural and Religious Creativity of Ancient Israel

The Collected Essays of George E. Mendenhall

Edited by Gary A. Herion and Herbert B. Huffmon

Throughout his long and influential career, George E. Mendenhall published groundbreaking, provocative studies on the history of the biblical tradition, law, and covenant and the Hebrew conquest of Palestine. This volume collects thirty-four of his hardest-to-find essays. The volume contains critical essays by Gary Herion, Herbert Huffmon, and Peter Machinist that summarize Mendenhall's impact on ancient and biblical studies; links for downloading a recent film documentary on Mendenhall's life and work; and excerpts from Mendenhall's autobiography, which he was working on at the time of his death.

The Unfolding of Your Words Gives Light

Studies on Biblical Hebrew in Honor of George L. Klein

Edited by Ethan C. Jones

This collection of essays, covering nearly every aspect of Biblical Hebrew studies, testifies to the invigorating joy of studying that language—a joy that is richly exemplified in the life of the volume's honoree, George Klein.

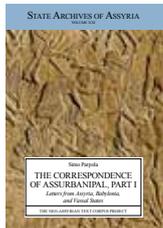

Paying tribute to a colleague who has devoted his academic career to teaching Biblical Hebrew, this book presents fresh explorations of topics related to Biblical Hebrew linguistics. Researchers, teachers, and students of Hebrew alike will benefit greatly from consulting the essays in this volume.
